Headline:

Windy and cold this weekend, with a risk of ice.

Today:

A cold day as wintry precipitation moves in from the west, falling as freezing rain, sleet and snow - giving a risk of ice forming. This weakens into the afternoon. Strong winds, potentially giving gales at the coasts. Remaining cold. Maximum temperature 3 deg C (37 deg F).

Tonight:

Drier for a time into the night, allowing some frost to form. Some patchy precipitation returns into the early hours, giving further freezing rain. Remaining windy and icy. Minimum temperature -1 deg C (30 deg F).

Sunday:

Some rain moves in from the west during the morning, heavy at times, and continues through the day. Staying windy, especially towards any coasts. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:

A foggy start Monday, as milder temperatures move in. Wetter from Tuesday and into Wednesday, with scattered showers and sunny spells elsewhere. Windy throughout.
